

Africa Checklist of: Families, Genera, and Species of Ectoparasitic Mites Found in the Palaearctic and Afrotropical Regions

Kawther M. El Kammah and Hanan S. Gabr

Zoology Department, Faculty of Agriculture, Cairo University, Giza, Egypt.

ABSTRACT

This Checklist includes 23 families, 74 Genera, 281 species of ectoparasitic mites distributed in 23 countries in Africa throughout the Palaearctic and Afrotropical regions. Data collected from Cameroons was the highest (20.5%), followed by S. Africa (17.5%), Egypt (14.5%). Data collected ranged from 0.5 to 5.0% from each of the other 20 countries included. Parasitic mites on birds belong to 14 families (7 infest skin and 7 feather mites). Their hosts belong to: Class: Aves:- Order: Anseriformes (duck, fowl, turkey...etc.), Columbiformes (pigeon, dove ...etc.), Passeriformes (canary, sparrows...etc.). Parasitic mites on animals belong to 9 families (4 mycotic mange, 2 itch mites, one hair follicle mange and 2 skin tissue mites). Their hosts belong to: Class: Mammalia: Order: Carnivora (dogs, cats,...etc.), Perissodactyla-(horses...etc.), Artiodactyla (sheep, pig, goats...etc.), Lagomorpha (rabbits...etc.), Rodentia, (rodents...etc), Primates (man...etc).

Key Words: Africa, Palaearctic, Afrotropical, Acari, Ectoparasitic mites.

Acari is the only group among Chelicerata which includes plant and animal parasites. Almost all animals larger than mites are parasitized by them. However, worldwide, parasitic mites are one of the least studied groups of animals despite their medical and economic importance, Baker & Wharton (1956), Baker et al. (1956), El Kammah et al. (1982a, b & 2007) and Hoogstraal (1984). Knowledge of mite species in the African fauna is still relatively sparse and few species are studied, Atyo & Guad (1970 & 1971); Nutting & Desch (1972), and Krantz (1978).

Special attention was directed to mite studies in Egypt, Kenya and Sudan by Keegan (1956) and in S. Africa by Zumpt (1961). They covered most African regions, (Africa Tropic of Cancer including Sahara). These regions were recently renamed by Crosskey & White (1977) and Kettle (1995) as the Palaearctic : (Africa north of the Tropic of Cancer including Sahara) and Afrotropical regions : (All Africa south of the Tropic of Cancer excluding the Sahara).

However, nomenclature of most species has been subject to change. It is our target to establish the present nomenclature of ectoparasitic mites found in different countries in Africa, (Fig.1). Information about each species listed herein includes synonymy, host and distribution, as compiled from previously published research work.
