The screenshot shows the NARA Action Blog interface. At the top, there is the National Archives logo and a search bar. Below the logo, the text reads "NARAtions: The Blog of the United States National Archives". The main content area features a post titled "Legislative Archives Fellowship" by Meredith D. (admin) on April 11, 2012. The post includes a small profile picture of Peter A. Shulman and a larger photo of him. The text of the post describes the fellowship and provides information on how to apply. On the right side of the post, there are options to subscribe to email updates and the RSS feed. The left sidebar contains a search bar, navigation links, and a list of categories.

This United States Hydrographic Office memorandum summarizes conditions in the North Atlantic for the first half of April 1912. Paragraph five records the Titanic's collision with an iceberg on April 14. In the initial report on the Titanic's collision with an iceberg, the magnitude of the damage was still unknown.

The screenshot shows the Historypin channel page for 'The National Archives on historypin'. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for 'Map', 'Tours & Collections', 'Channels', and 'Community', along with 'Pin', 'Join', and 'Login' options. The main header features the text 'The National Archives on historypin' overlaid on a map of the National Archives building in Washington, D.C. Below the header, there is a section for 'USNatArchives' with a logo of an eagle and the text 'NATIONAL ARCHIVES'. To the right, there is a 'Channel Details' section with the following information: Channel views: 827, Fans: 10, Pins: 555, Tours: 3, Collections: 7. There is a 'Become a Fan' button and a 'Share this channel' section with social media icons for Facebook, Twitter, and a plus sign for other options. The bottom of the page contains a paragraph of text about the National Archives, stating it was established in 1934 by President Franklin Roosevelt and that its major holdings date back to 1776.

The National Archives on github

What is GitHub?

GitHub provides a platform for people around the world to share and collaborate on software development projects with simple version control and management steps. You can find us on GitHub at <https://github.com/usnationalarchives>

The National Archives Digitization Services Branch has developed a number of software applications to facilitate the digitization workflows that the branch performs. Because the tools have greatly benefited our digitization staff in their work, we are sharing these tools with other organizations and the public through GitHub.
